[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO SEPT. 28.

German Liberals Offended.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The arrest of Jacoby, the noted liberal, has given profound offense throughout North Germany.

The Fight at Orleans.

ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—Prince Albert's cavalry encountered the French troops gathered for the defense of Orleans near Anthenay, and after three hours' fighting, the French retreated on Tours. The Prussians occupy Orleans to-morrow.

England Frightened.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Public opinion in England is reacting against Prussia. The pretensions of the latter is alarming the English for their own safety. Lord Carnarvon, in a speech, showed how suddenly it may collapse the great nation under the new system of warfare and how defenseless England is. The English are frightened into remorse for not forcing the Government into active mediation.

Military Law in Prussia Protested Against.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The excitement increases over the arrest of Jacoby, and an imposing protest has been sent to Bismarck denouncing the maintenance of military law, now that the danger of an invasion has ceased.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Evidences of a plot for another coup d'etat, projected by Napoleon, has been discovered at Lyons.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—A manifesto is published demanding the co-operation of the people in establishing a United Germany. The manifesto is remarked as foreshadowing future political agitation.

Surrender of Strasbourg Announced.

DARMSTADT, Sept. 27.—A telegram has just been received from Ludwigshofen, advising us of the surrender of Strasbourg at 5 P. M. on Monday.

Favre's Official Report.

TOURS, Sept. 27.—Favre to-day made an official report to the government here of his mission to the Prussian headquarters. He says Bismarck demanded Haut-Rhin, Bas Rhin, Moselle, Metz, Chateau, Saline and Sousine; also, the forts which command Paris and the surrender of Strasbourg. Favre concluded from the manner in which all efforts for peace have been met that Prussia is determined on conquest.

How Paris is Invested.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Paris was closed in on the 19th, as follows: The 4th corps opposite St. Denis, the 12th supporting them; the Guards and 5th, 6th, and 11th corps are on the east and south sides. 120 degrees of the western arch of the wall is protected by doublings of the Seine, and is only held by the cavalry.

King William's Programme.

An officer of King William's headquarters, who left there after Favre's visit, says the condition made by King William preliminary to all peace discussions is the entry of Paris; also, that there is no intention at present to carry Metz by force. It is intended to await developments at Paris, which will culminate in something decisive within three weeks. During that period only the investment of Metz will be maintained.

Envoy to Bazaine.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—It is stated that an envoy sent by Napoleon to Bazaine was allowed to pass the German lines and enter Metz.

A Coup de Etat Projected by Napoleon.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Evidences of a plot for another coup d'etat projected by Napoleon, with the assistance of Rouher and Cassagnac, was discovered in Lyons.

The Condition of Strasbourg.

A Hamburg correspondent writes on the 24th and says: Strasbourg can be taken at any moment, but the Germans must sacrifice from 3,000 to 4,000 men. An assault will probably take place in a few days.

Rumored Negotiations between Spain and Prussia.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A Madrid correspondent says negotiations are being actively pursued between Prim and the Prussian Ambassador. The latter has offered that if Spain will accept King John of Saxony, or a Prussian Prince for the Spanish throne, they are to pay Spain several million reals and give her part of Algeria and the fortress of Gibraltar, and help her to annex Portugal so as to constitute a strong ally for Prussia.

England has no Defence.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Public opinion in England is reacting against Prussia. The pretensions of the latter are alarming the English for their own safety. Lord Carnarvon, in a speech at Eastwood said there was no military organization in England. The whole defensive arrangements are a vicious system of incapacity, waste and routine, and whatever is to be done has to be done quickly, for England is living on the sufferance of other nations. Declamations like these from men like Carnarvon are frightening the English into remorse for not forcing the Government into active mediation. Gladstone, in reply to the workingmen's deputation, said it was clear that the recognition of the French Republic must follow the popular vote sustaining the Government.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 27.—Thiers arrived today.

Confederation Meeting at Munich.

CARLSRUHE, Sept. 27.—A great meeting held at Munich resolved to accept the Stuttgardt proposition, and requested the King to take immediate steps to bring them into the confederation. Representatives of the democratic party attended and were to offer protests against Bavaria joining the confederation of Alsace and Lorraine.

The Surrender of Toul.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Accounts of the surrender of Toul, received from the headquarters of Prince Frederic Charles say the garrison was ridiculously weak—60 cuirassiers, 100 of line, 40 gens d'armes and 2,000 raw mobiles; among them not one regular artillery soldier. The commander was Maj. Huck, a cavalry man. The German officers are surprised that such a force should have blockaded the Paris railroad so essential for transportation, in fact the whole line, for six weeks. The line now becomes at once complete. Many houses were destroyed.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—Sam'l Dana, Lieut. Col. by Brevet, of the Paymaster's Department U. S. A., died yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, at the military camp on Goat Island, of injuries which he had received a few days previously by falling from a window in an epileptic fit.

The End Not Yet.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

King William and his invincibles are accomplishing more than they intended to when they crossed the Rhine. They set forth to repel an invasion and to punish Napoleon. Already they have overthrown the French Empire, captured its Emperor, destroyed its standing army and set up a republic, they have restored Rome to Italy, and completed the unification of the old "Mistress of the World," they have postponed, perhaps indefinitely, the re-establishment of monarchy in Spain; they have consolidated Germany into one compact, invulnerable power.

How much more their march from the Rhine to the Seine may accomplish, who can foretell? The shock of their mighty blows may produce a reaction that will convert Germany into a republic. The monarchy of Great Britain may crumble down from the stupendous concussion, and a democracy arise there. The rebound of these victories may, in their final effects, drive the Turk from Europe and partition his domain among Russia, Austria and Greece. The end is not yet.

During the last three years an immense amount of gold and silver has passed through Omaha for the East, its value reaching a total of about $700,000. Of this amount $500,000 has been in gold coin, and the remainder in silver bars. The treasure was shipped from California, the silver being from the mines of Nevada.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Russian Movement toward the Turkish Frontier.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Reports thicken. Russia is preparing for war. Her army at the South has been mobilized. Late movements toward the Turkish border are ominous.

Armistice.

An armistice of 48 hours has been concluded at Mezeires for the removal of the wounded.

French Military Dispatches.

TOURS, Sept. 28.—A dispatch just received announces that the Prussians have not entered Orleans. They came near the city, halted and then commenced to move back to Paris. A civilian whom they captured and released, says Prince Albert received a dispatch which seems suddenly to have changed his plans. The Prussians have entirely evacuated Fontainbleau. They imposed no tax, but made heavy requisitions for provisions and forage.

A dispatch from Epernel 27th, says the Prussians attacked Rouen yesterday, but were repulsed.

Surrender of Strasbourg.

MUNDENHEIM, Sept. 28.—The surrender of Strasbourg was signed at 2 o'clock P. M. Four hundred and fifty one officers and 17,000 men laid down their arms at 8 o'clock. The place will be occupied by the besiegers.

Late French Advices.

TOURS, Sept. 28.—The disposition to resist the Germans to the last grows stronger in the west and south. Troops continue to pour into Tours.

Advices from Paris to Sunday 25th, have been received by balloon. Perfect order exists in the city.

The Prussians have marched into Orleans and are now in full occupation of the city.

The people residing in the suburbs of Paris have returned to their houses, whence they had been driven away by the lawlessness of the Garde Mobile.

The Prussians opened fire on the gunboats while passing St. Cloud recently, killing and wounding several of the French.

The Prussians are erecting a battery at Sevres. A lively fire was opened on them from Fort Dessay while they were at work.

General News.

DARMSTADT, Sept. 27.—King William's dispatch to Queen Augusta, announcing the capitulation of Strasbourg at 11 o'clock last night, has just been made public here, at noon.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Mobiles are deserting in crowds at Paris. Two hundred have been shot for insubordination.

The region around Paris for twenty kilometres from the walls is depopulated and devastated.

CURRENT NOTES.

Grand Island, Nebraska, now claims to be the "geographical center," and wants the capital.

The Cheyenne Leader says that Cheyenne is played out. The completion of the Denver Pacific gave it its death blow.

Thieves in Colorado do a heavy business. Over 300 pounds of rich ore were recently stolen from the O. K. lode in one night.

The census returns show the population of Memphis to be 40,230. In 1860 it had 22,623 inhabitants—an increase of nearly 100 per cent.

The New York Free Press, the organ of the Young Democracy, sets forth this catechism for the instruction of the faithful: Who "made" you? Bill Tweed. Who gives you your daily bread? Bill Tweed. What is honor? Receiving his "smiles" and "repeating" for him. What is the principal aim of life? To go for stamps and worship Bill Tweed. What is the true means of political salvation? Getting the right side of Bill Tweed. Where will you go if you die politically? Out in the cold.

The Catlettsburg (Ky.) Herald tells the following: "Happening into the office of the County Clerk, made agreeable and pleasant by the presence of our friends Jim and Millard, on Saturday last, we witnessed the following rich incident: A man was there for the purpose of getting a marriage license, accompanied by a friend and the sister of the to-be-bride. After the Clerk had performed his duties in the premises he held the precious document until the notice of "payment in advance" had been complied with. Says the groomsman to the lady, 'You will have to pay for it?' 'Why,' says she, 'you had $1 50 when we started!' 'Oh, yes, but I spent them for fiddle strings!' The fee was paid and the party went on their way rejoicing."

When the Prussians occupied Pont-a-Mousson, the German General sent for the Mayor and demanded rations for a given number of his men. The requisition wound up with a demand for five hundred bottles of champagne. With tears in his eyes the municipal functionary protested that there was not so much champagne to be obtained, for love or money, in Pont-a-Mousson. The Prussian General was a placable man, and did not lose his temper when the Mayor told him that he was short of Veuve Clicquot and Roederer. "You must pay," he said simply; and the Mayor hastened to hand over an equivalent in cash for the non-forthcoming "fizz." "Das ist schon—schrecklick schon," pursued the General: "and now, if you like, Mr. Mayor, as you may be called upon again for a similar article, I'll sell you some champagne. I captured fifty dozen from the baggage of Marshal McMahon at Woerth, and they are all yours at ten francs a bottle."

Victor Hugo as a Blower.

[From the N. Y. Herald.]

Victor Hugo as a blower may defy his rivals and his imitators. He beats them all. He has issued a manifesto to the Germans—a regular Chinese flaming-dragon manifesto in which he warns them off from Paris. He tells them, "You may take the fortress, you may find the rampart; you may take rampart, you will find the barricade; you may take the barricade, and then you will find the sewers mines of powder, ready to blow whole streets into the air;" that, in short, the Germans will find, if they try it, that the "city which yesterday was Sybaris, to-morrow may be Saragossa."

This is the stuff which Victor Hugo, as a defender of the new French Republic, is wisely permitted to publish to the German columns marching upon Paris from their crushing operations at Sedan. Could Hugo, for a moment, suppose that those German columns, after marching over cuirassiers, cannon, mitrailleuses, trenches, ramparts and mines of powder, where to be frightened by a Chinese paper dragon, with glaring eyeballs of terror and destruction, lighted by fish oil? Where was that famous devil fish, which has the appearance of a dozen muscular knotty sea-serpents branching out from a fishy head and a pair of devilish eyes, and which has in those muscular arms a set of suckers that would drain the life blood out of a rhinoceros in five minutes? That was the chap for Hugo to trot out against Von Moltke.

We have no idea, however, that Victor Hugo supposes that he will scare away the approaching German armies by his silly manifesto. Nor was it intended to frighten them. Hugo sees that for the time being blowing is the fashion in Paris, and this suits him exactly, for he is the crown prince, nay, the king of blowers. We think, too, that this blowing is a good thing for Paris. It carries off the gas of self-conceit which has poisoned too long the moral air of the city, and will make room for the wholesome oxygen of common sense. Paris will not become another Saragossa, because if Paris, with its million and a half of people, can be cut off from its supplies of provisions, Paris will come to terms. Cut off Victor Hugo for two days from his poached eggs and mutton chops and he will pronounce Saragossa a humbug that can't be repeated in Paris against fire and bombshells.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

SALEM, Tuesday, Sept. 27.

DRAINAGE OF STATE LANDS.

The report of the commissioners appointed by the Legislature in 1868, to superintend the construction of a canal to drain State lands in Union county, represents that the appropriation of $15,000, in consequence of being paid in greenbacks, was insufficient; that the canal was not, for the same reason, made of so large a capacity as at first planned; that it has answered the general expectations, notwithstanding; that another ditch is needed to drain off the waters of Catherine creek: and that there is a deficiency in connection with the first ditch, etc., the general drift of the report and recommendations being that another appropriation be made. As an accompanying document to the report, Mr. Hendershott presented a bill to appropriate $3,750 to complete the drainage scheme. The bill will doubtless pass.

GROVER FLINGS DIRT AT WOODS.

His Excellency seems disposed to create the impression that this thing of Executive business has never been done according to Gunter, but that, hereafter, the great Oregon public can bet its nethermost coin, that everything will be done upon the rule and square, and in lightning calculator style. He has embraced two or three occasions to intimate that this or that matter has been neglected by his predecessors. The other day there was a resolution of inquiry as to the location, etc., of lands selected for the State Agricultural College. In response, the Governor sent in the report of the commissioners with the gratuitous information that the information sought ought to have been furnished by his predecessor, but that the subject had not been even mentioned in his message. The facts are that in the preparation of his message, Gov. Woods inadvertently omitted mention of the report of the Commissioners of the Agricultural College Lands. He subsequently handed the report to Grover with an explanation of the omission. Grover kept the document till the resolution of inquiry was sent him, and then he furnished it, with such remarks as would lead to the impression that Gov. Woods had been guilty of suppression or neglect.

Then, again, a resolution of inquiry in regard to the location and disposition of Public Lands, was sent him from the Senate. Yesterday he replied that he could not give the required information, for the reason that there were no records, maps, abstracts, etc., on file in his office; that he had set inquiries on foot and as soon as the information could be obtained from the Land Offices he would transmit it to the Senate, concluding with the self-glorifying assurance that he would soon have affairs in his office in such system as would enable him to furnish information to order. His effort, plainly enough, was to create the impression that he had found the business in his office in great confusion. But he never exhibited the pettiness of his character or perchance his ignorance, to greater disadvantage. The business about which the Senate made inquiry, is transacted by a Commission, consisting of the Governor, Secretary and Treasurer of State, the business being mostly transacted by an agent. This Commission has charge of all the books, records, maps, abstracts, etc. Such documents do not properly belong to the Executive office, and of course would not ordinarily be found there. This Grover must have known. Had he made inquiry of the other Commissioners he would have found all the necessary papers and could have furnished all the required information, without sending away to the Land Offices. I am informed that the old Commission has not yet submitted its report; but in any event, if Grover did not know how and where to find the information, he exhibited his ignorance of what everybody else knows. If he was not ignorant his communication exhibited all the pettiness of a pettifogging trick,—a sort of falsehood, uttered for no worthier purpose than to cast dirt upon his predecessor.

AN UNSUCCESSFUL GRAB AT THE SCHOOL FUND.

The Senate bill to make an appropriation to aid in the construction of a wagon road from the mouth of Sandy to Dalles City, upon which a lively discussion was raised this afternoon, proposes to take $70,000 from the fund arising from the sale of the 500,000 acres of land donated to the State for internal improvements, and give it to the road company. The Constitution of Oregon provides that with the assent of Congress, this fund shall be diverted to the school fund. It was argued by the opponents of the bill that the terms of the approval of our Constitution by Congress contained an implied assent to this diversion. The friends of the bill argued that the law of Congress of 1841 could not be repealed except by positive enactment; and that, as no such positive repeal had ever been enacted the original law was still in force, and that the suggestion for diversion in our Constitution went for nothing. But it is not my purpose here to repeat the arguments for and against the bill. The debate upon it brought out the fact that certain Senators had some unexplained but deep anxiety in regard to the success of the bill. Mr. Cochran charged that the bill was part of a general system of grabs at the fund, whether technically it is a school or an internal improvement fund. He charged also that the Jackson-Grant-Baker wagon road bill and the Oregon City lock scheme are parts of the same system. This seems, really, to be the truth in the premises. There seems little doubt but that there has been a sort of ring formed to parcel out this fund to various schemes already introduced or to be introduced. The Sandy-Dalles grab, however, failed to-day, for want of votes. There were 11 to 9 upon the call of the roll, but Mr. Trevitt changed his vote for the purpose of moving a reconsideration, making the vote 10 to 10. There are those, however, who are willing to bet that the bill will yet pass. If so we may bid an affectionate farewell to the school fund, for the inroad upon it once being made, it will fade away before the jobbers like dew before a summer's sun.

FAY RISES TO A QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

There is a nice row on hand between the President of the Senate and the State Printer. Mr. Fay rose this afternoon to a question of privilege, reading and commenting on an article published a few days since in the Oregon Herald. The article in question charged somebody—a late candidate for U. S. Senator—with having attempted to secure his election by treachery and corruption. Fay thought he was the man shot at, and so he took occasion to show that the feelings he entertains for the State Printer and the Herald are not of the most cordial character. A committee of investigation was ordered, upon Mr. Fay's motion, and the row now presents the most encouraging features. Look out for fun.

INAUGURAL, SENATORIAL AND SALTATORIAL.

The great event of the session, next to the inauguration and the Senatorial election, is the inaugural and Senatorial ball now in progress. The audience room of the Opera House is well filled with ladies and gentlemen, fiddlers, tooters, and Jenkinses, some of whom—the ladies, I mean—are good looking, well dressed and all that, while others are most decidedly and horribly the reverse. I can't for my life undertake to say whether the "beauty" of Salem is at the ball. There is some of the "chivalry" there that I can swear to. Messrs Grover and Kelly do the honors very pleasantly—the first with a little stiff dignity, the latter with a little more than his usual suavity and good nature. Dancing, however, is not Kelly's forte. He will never distinguish himself saltatorially, whatever he may do Senatorially. I should say that, altogether, the ball is not only an event, but a success.

The Party of Eternal Principles

The Herald favors us with some [illegible] regarding the character of its party which are peculiarly [illegible]

Looking over the political battlefield during the pending fall canvass one cannot help smiling at the guerrilla style of warfare in which the Democratic party is engaged But this instead of being a sign of weakness is rather a sign of vigorous growing strength It is evident also, that the party is adapting itself to the necessities of the case and is using in each particular State just those tactics which will weaken and distract the enemy

Thus says this exponent of the eternal principles of Democracy [illegible] the Democratic party [illegible] for a good position prior to the Presidential canvass of 1872

Now we imagine that nothing but the peculiarly bewildering events of the last few months in this State events which have shown in the most forcible manner that the Democratic party has neither principles to maintain nor policy to suggest could have brought the Herald to the confessional in this way But having witnessed what has befallen its party here, having seen it make a fight in the election in favor of a certain policy, and then turn squarely about in the Legislature and endorse the opposite policy by a unanimous vote the eyes of the Herald are fully opened as to the doings of its party everywhere and it sees it engaged merely in a guerrilla style of warfare not knowing what course to take or what [illegible] having no ideas and no policy to present totally in the dark as to its future movements maneuvering for a position it knows not what and we quote here also the choice language of the organ, "laying low for black ducks" The Herald has truly described its party but we hardly expected such a description and characterization from such a source

Undoubtedly this is the clear quill of Democracy A party without ideas or principles an organization that cannot rise above the "guerrilla style of warfare a combination of malcontent elements who are dissatisfied they know not why, who can agree among themselves in nothing, and who can unite on no consistent basis of opposition to the Republican party,—such is 'Democracy as represented by its principal organ in Oregon The picture is a very accurate one And yet this "guerrilla" party this party without any plan of action or any definite purpose is a candidate for the helm of the country! Surely the country would prosper under the guidance of a party of so much sagacity and wisdom!

This statement by the Herald of the predicament in which its party is placed is a complete refutation of all the loose accusations that are brought against a Republican Administration For, if there were so many abuses in the management of public affairs as Democratic journals assert their party would have plenty of material for platforms They could go before the people pointing out abuses and offering reforms They would not be forced to adopt their present "guerrilla style of warfare," and maneuver for a position" A plain and consistent course would open before them They could attack the Republican party openly, and with great effect But as things are, they have no chance The people are satisfied with the manner in which public affairs are conducted, and the Republican ranks are therefore immovable Hence the party of "eternal principles knows not what course to take In each State it is fighting on a different platform, and there is nothing in its platforms when compared with each other but incongruity and disorder The Herald's confessions are both truthful and timely

Population of Washington Territory

The enumeration of the inhabitants of Washington Territory now completed shows the following result as compared with the census of 1860

Counties	1870	1860
Chehalis	580	285
Clallam	394	149
Clarke	5 081	2 384
Cowlitz	730	406
Island	469	294
Jefferson	1 270	531
King	2,164	302
Kitsap	847	544
Klickitat	329	230
Lewis	889	384
Pacific	679	420
Pierce	1 411	1 115
Mason	273	162
Skamania	133	173
Stevens	[illegible]	996
Thurston	2 246	1 507
Walla Walla	5 302	1 318
Wahkiakum	223	42
Whatcom	974	352
Yakima	409 (new county)
Snohomish	[illegible]
	23 400	11 594

Some of the other Territories, as Montana show a more rapid growth in population than Washington, but no one, we believe, is growing so surely, or laying so broad and deep the foundations of future wealth and importance The most rapid growth in any county in Washington Territory is in King That county has increased in population more than seven fold since the last census Seattle is situated in it

Another rebuke for the [illegible] organ Senator Baldwin of Grant county has written a letter to that paper in which he expresses with much warmth his disapprobation of its insinuations relative to the caucus resolutions or pledges on which Kelly was elected Mr Baldwin says "You clearly intend your readers to believe that the adoption of those resolutions by the caucus was a stultification of itself and Col Kelly's endorsement of them a humiliation on his part I expected the Republican papers and party to find fault with our acts in that respect and if possible to make capital out of it, but I confess I was not prepared to find in the Herald a ready ally Now for once we sympathize with the Herald It is clearly right in speaking of the whole affair as a stultification of the Democratic party and a humiliation of Col Kelly Of late it has begun to be somewhat plainer and more candid in its utterances Witness what it says about the Democracy being nothing now but a guerrilla party But Senator Baldwin still wants to keep up appearances Hence his censures on the Herald That paper is now catching it all round from leading members of its party

The session is passing away and the Legislature has not yet fairly grappled with the great Chinese question And after all the talk and clap trap uttered by the Democratic party their Legislature will adjourn without doing anything about the Chinese Do not even the dullest persons begin to see that there is nothing in this thing but capital for political demagogues?

We take it now as a fact which it will do to rely on that the Democratic party will not desire to make a fight in 1872 with the Republicans on the question of "railroad monopoly That subject at last is eliminated from Oregon politics

Germany's Insults to France

[illegible] New York [illegible] the [illegible] Germans who [illegible] French [illegible] forced into bitter struggle by the [illegible] and inhabitants of Germany Their misfortunes [illegible] suddenly [illegible] insulted by [illegible] than France it [illegible] had been [illegible] for many [illegible] the [illegible] Sh[illegible] the overthrow of Austria and [illegible] content herself will [illegible] Germany further [illegible] the M[illegible] seeing her insolent rival at [illegible] the [illegible] and kingdoms in North Germany This was a bitter thrust But the [illegible] it was when Napoleon [illegible] something [illegible] a few [illegible] as a fair indemnity for his [illegible] in allowing Germany to be a Great Power and was politely informed that Germany [illegible] never give up the national [illegible] The New York [illegible] pithily says that no one can appreciate the insolence of this reply of the haughty Germans if we could imagine Great Britain [illegible] manding of the United States the trifling concessions of the State of Maine in return for her not interfering to prevent our conquering the rebels

It has come at last The very indecent and scurrilous attack made by the Herald on a Democratic Senator a few days ago is getting that paper into trouble The charges brought by it against that Senator are to be investigated by a committee of the Senate That is to say the responsible man of the Herald if any such can be found is to be jerked up before this committee and required to tell what he meant by his attack, and to produce proof to sustain his assertions This is well It would be gratifying indeed to see the license of the Democratic press of Oregon rebuked or punished by its own party It has long needed a check

Still no move in the Legislature to tax U S bonds What can that body be thinking of? Why is not this great step taken to "emancipate the people from the tyranny of bloated capital You have promised now perform!

WAR MISCELLANY

It is said that the only public building in Paris where the Imperial arms have been allowed to remain is the Morgue

It was asserted before the battle of Sedan, that every time the Emperor moved along a line of railway a delay of twenty four hours in the victualling of the army occurred in consequence of trains being shunted to leave the line clear for His Majesty This when 150 000 men of the Moselle were on half rations.

Cambronne's famous mot on the battlefield of Waterloo created quite a furore when first published "on the best of authority" by Victor Hugo The commander of Toul spoke with equal determination, when summoned to surrender by the Prussians a few days ago pithily saying I will only open the gates when your fire has communicated to the tail of my shirt"

Gen Hartman the commander of the Second Bavarian Army Corps who had suffered the most furious attacks on account of his action at the battle of Kissingen in 1866 solicited and obtained permission from the commander in chief of the South German army to make the first attack on the French with his troops Weissenburg and Woerth have obliterated the remembrance of Kissingen

A private letter from Paris relates that the Duc de Grammont who has taken to spending his evenings at the Jockey Club was lately asked there, 'How he came to blunder into such a fatal war?'" He replied I asked the Minister of war, I asked if he was ready, and he answered, 'Ready? Aye and doubly ready? Otherwise" added the Duc I should have taken care not to have counseled a war which there were twenty modes of averting

The Prussians have just driven the poor old Baroness de Ruemont from her chateau for the third time They first forced her to fly in 1792, then again in 1814 and now at the age of 94 she is once more obliged to abandon her home The Baroness lives a few miles from Montmedy at the chateau of Grand Verneul where apartments were prepared to receive Louis XVI during his flight They were never occupied by the unfortunate monarch who was stopped at Varennes

It is related of Von Moltke that during Sadowa, while the fighting was going on his aides and orderlies brought him messages from time to time on which, seated in his tent, with his plan before him, he gave his orders At length something was said not readily intelligible he rose mounted his horse galloped across the country and straight through the line of fire heedless of ball or bullet and, having seen what he wanted to see galloped back the same way, and quietly completed his orders

The Chicago Tribune says Of course France cannot disarm while the enemy is on her soil no matter how the enemy came there but if a guarantee of future peace is the thing now sought for by the King of Prussia he can devise no means so certain to secure it as to require the reduction of the French military establishment to the mere force needed for its own police purposes Having secured this he can disband his own army and abate $100 000 000 of taxes now paid by his people, and add an equal amount to the productive powers of his country Perhaps he does not care to see this kind of a reform instituted at home

POLITICAL NOTES

It is amusing to notice the boasting of some of the Democratic papers over their gain in Vermont The full returns give the Republicans 200 or more members of the Legislature and the Democrats 25 or 30 all told

Mayor Hall of New York in his communication to the Common Council regarding the Federal census of that city intimates that the intelligent Democracy of the tenement house class were intimidated from revealing their full numbers to the census taker for fear of a draft Considering that the war has been over for some five years this shows a high degree of intelligence among New York Democrats

Senator Robertson of South Carolina has just received letters from Democrats in which they admit that the Republican party is gaining ground among the white population Two Democratic members of the late Legislature have come out for the Republican ticket Senator Robertson says that in the Charleston and Beaufort Districts where there are two Republican candidates in the field the party controls three fourths of the votes and cannot be defeated by this division

"From a letter received yesterday says the Washington [illegible] from Hon D I Harrison, Chairman of the Ohio State Republican Central Committee we learn that there is every prospect that the State will re elect all her Republican members of the Forty first to the Forty second Congress but the member from the Sixth District Hon John A Smith who it is thought will be succeeded by Gen Denver Democrat in consequence of dissatisfaction in the Republican ranks

Mayor Hall objects to the way in which the United States officers are taking the census in New York by which repeaters are counted only once He has written to Washington to ask that it be taken in his way by which the registered voters outnumber the entire population in strong Democratic wards Superintendent Walker acknowledged the important bearing of the question upon Mr Hall's political future but insisted on the great mathematical fact that once one is one

One of the number a professor of Harvard College with the writer of this letter who has seen the painting [illegible] Mount Hood by Bierstadt, said the painting was not true to nature The artist had taken the [illegible] to move Mount Hood and [illegible] a view untrue and impossible

HANDSOME CARS An inspection of the work being done at the car shops of Mr Holladay near East Portland is sufficient to convince any one that the employees are first class workmen The passenger cars now in process of construction are certainly as fine as can be produced anywhere else The lumber and materials are all first class Mr Holladay's private car is to be a perfect model It will be about 60 feet in length, with an entrance at each end the same as other passenger coaches but will be divided off into rooms leading from one main hall on one side These rooms are of dimensions large enough to be used for parlor dining room kitchen two sleeping rooms &c etc In addition to this car there is also under way and to be completed by the first of October four first class passenger coaches and several freight cars The passenger coaches are all upholstered in fine crimson velvet plush and the private car which is also richly upholstered is to be finished in the finest quality of maple and black walnut A considerable portion of the wood work doors sashes, seats, etc , was prepared at the shops of Mr John Walker, on this side

DEATH OF A PROTEGE —Many of the citizens of Portland have known for some time that Capt O'Regan had under his care an Indian boy whom he rescued in one of the winter campaigns in Southern Idaho during the year 1862 3 The boy was then an infant His mother had been killed in the fight and a soldier was in the act of dispatching the child when Capt O Regan gave the order for him to stop and saving the child thus he took it upon himself to provide for it. This he has done in a manner very creditable, until now his protege is dead and to day we understand the funeral will be attended by Capt O Regan and many of his friends The boy had learned to love his guardian, and Capt. O'Regan had a full measure of kindness in his heart for the boy as his action in the past goes far to prove

ODD FELLOWS ORPHANS HOME.—According to the Rescue we learn that donations in California have been made to secure the location of the Odd Fellows Orphans Home as follows: "Stockton offers ninety acres of land and $20 000 in cash And Vacaville offers buildings and grounds estimated to be worth $40,000 Vallejo offers land and cash endowments equal to $55,000 assets. Sacramento offers a beautiful building site of forty acres of land, known as Oak Knoll, and an undivided half interest in three hundred acres of land adjoining the city limits, estimated to be worth $200 000 "

PASSENGERS FROM CALIFORNIA —The Oriflamme left San Francisco for Portland yesterday, bringing the following passengers

J C Van Rensselaer and wife J M Bloomfield and wife W H Bloomfield A V Brookie, H Richmond J J Dempsey and wife A J Hofer F Hofer, A Sumner Jas Lamon, Jas Chandler, E Olmstead and family J R Baker and wife W H [illegible] W J Godfrey L D Bower J M Jones, T Barry, Mrs L [illegible] Mrs Young Thos Cross and family, Mrs C S Smith Mrs S Robinson, Mrs Brooks and children S D Holt and wife, G M Farnholtz and eight others

EAST PORTLAND The matter of the new bridge and repairing the old one at East Portland, which has been before the Commissioners and County Judge for some weeks past is yet undetermined This much we learn however, that the Court does not deem it proper to resurvey and locate a new county road nor to build wholly at the expense of the county a new bridge In case that sufficient money is pledged to make the burden light upon the taxpayers the Court is prepared to rebuild in a substantial manner the old bridge

GOOD TIME The ferry boat made a trip over to East Portland and back yesterday in six minutes. This quick trip was for the purpose of accommodating any dilatory party who may have been left behind and who wanted to catch the train for Salem In a general sense we believe Mr Douglas gives good satisfaction to the people who cross the river often

LANDS WANTED Mr William Bond of Erie county Pennsylvania arrived here by the last steamer and we understand that he represents a proposed colony of fifty or more families of Pennsylvania farmers coming from that State to Oregon and he desires to purchase forty thousand acres of land suitable for farming purposes located in this State

TO PRESIDENT GRANT —An Eastern paper states that Mr Ben Holladay is the donor to President Grant of a very beautiful reproduction of the colossal painting of Sheridan's Ride by the poet-artist himself T Buchanan Read It is if possible a more forcible and powerful work throughout than the noble original painting

THE COSMOPOLITAN The Cosmopolitan Hotel which is yet undergoing repairs it is thought will be ready to open for guests next week The new proprietors Messrs [illegible] and Daniel Belton have expended considerable in fitting and refurnishing and the house will be new in many respects

[illegible] Salem [illegible] will [illegible] be in attendance at the [illegible] County Agricultural Fair where he is to deliver the annual address

FRAME [illegible] —The new ferry boat building at East Portland for the Oregon and California Railroad Company begins to assume the proportions of a vessel [illegible] of the frame work was put in position [illegible]

THE TERRITORIES

Montana has a Chinese population of 1 946

A lot of the Big Horners have reached Bozeman City, Montana

The Cedar Creek diggings return a population of over 1 940 Three months ago the population of Cedar Creek was estimated at 10,000

The Olympia Tribune of Monday says The stages continue to come crowded with passengers from the Columbia river On Saturday and Sunday evenings not less than fifty persons came overland

A party has gone from Olympia to Mount Rainier on a scientific exploration They go prepared to ascertain what minerals if any, exist there and the general geological formation of the mountain

About ten days ago Clark and Stacey's steam saw mill, shingle machine, and 75,000 feet of lumber, on Reynold's creek, in the Owyhee country, were destroyed by fire Losses estimated at $16,000 The proprietors have another mill and still keep at work

The Olympia Transcript says that about twenty thousand pounds of hops have been raised on the Puyallup this year, and the farmers are realizing a good price and a handsome profit The quality of these hops raised in our cool climate, is so far superior to the article raised in California that these last will not bring more than half the price of the Puyallup hops There will be a surplus this year to export, a part of which we learn will be shipped to Portland by the next steamer, and still others to San Francisco

Terms of Peace

[From the Washington Chronicle]

Discussing the terms on which Prussia might probably be induced to end the war a London paper suggests the payment of a considerable sum by France to defray the actual outlay of the causeless and unprovoked contest a permanent reduction in the armed force of France, a recognition of Germany as a whole and the line of the Vosges the old German frontier which is more defensible than any other which exists The money will have to be paid On July 16th when war was proclaimed by Napoleon there was the sum of $255 000 000 in gold in the coffers of the Bank of France This sum is now reduced to $165 000 000 all of which will probably be transferred to Prussia It has been said that if France had a good big colony to offer—even the Isle of Bourbon and Cochin China might do—Prussia which wants "ships colonies and commerce" might take them in preference to Alsace, which France would be always plotting to regain

There is nothing new either in theory or practice in the surrender of conquered territory or even of territory originally owned after a great war is closed by the defeat of one party and the triumph of another Nor is it uncommon, nor unfair, for the victor to levy the expenses of the war upon the conquered Napoleon always levied such contributions no matter who provoked or begun the strife on the countries over whom he passed destructive as the blast of the simoom In 1814 when the first Empire had its first fall, a treaty was agreed upon by which France surrendered all her conquests since the Revolution and the kingdom was reduced to her territorial limits as they stood on the 1st of January 1792 By this arrangement 53 fortresses of note 12 000 pieces of cannon ammunition and military stores in incalculable quantities and garrisons the amount of 100 000 men all beyond the frontiers of Old France were thus surrendered In 1807 when Napoleon made himself master of Prussia which then had only 7 000 000 of inhabitants he imposed a contribution of $130 000 000 and severed from it the half of its dominions From Austria by the treaty of 1809 he exacted $47 500 000 and wrested a fourth of its realm The measure thus meted to others soon became that meted to France When Blucher entered into occupation of Paris in 1815 after Waterloo he demanded $20 000 000 from the French Government for the pay of his troops as Napoleon had done from the Prussians in Berlin At the same time Austria demanded the restoration of Lorraine and Alsace Finally by the treaty of Paris exacted in November 1815, the French territory was limited to what it had been in 1790 and 700 000 000 francs equal to $140 000 000 in gold was exacted by the allied Powers for the expenses of the war besides 735 000 000 francs ($147 000 000) being paid as indemnity for spoliations inflicted on the various Powers during the revolution and 100 000 000 francs ($20 000 000 more was paid to the smaller Powers for their share of the war costs Thus 1 535 000 000 francs equal to $307 000 000 in all were paid by the French after Waterloo besides the cost of maintaining a foreign army of occupation in France from three to five years

These facts will show that there is ample precedent were any needed for a conqueror's exacting hard terms from the vanquished foe Prussia will not yet make her demands but is able to ... to insist on ... and ... all the war ... she has been put to by the challenge of Louis Napoleon

The Summer is past and Autumn is here
The finest season throughout the whole year
But the days grow cool and all must prepare
For warmer Clothing in Winter to wear
Well KOHN & FISHEL of Clothing renown,
Have the best supply ever brought to town
They have all sorts of coats and pants that will match
That will last a whole year and not need a patch
There are socks vests and shirts and a thousand things more,
Which they offer you cheaper than ever before
You all need the clothes and they need the tin
Then get a new suit and let Winter go

Trust what Time has Sanctioned

The maxim that the voice of the people is the voice of the divinity may in some cases be open to doubt but the testimony of honest and enlightened witnesses extending through a series of years and all to the same purport is worthy of credence admits of no question Upon such testimony the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as an antidote and cure for any ailments is based During the twenty years that it has been before the world innumerable preparations intended to compete with it have gone up like rockets and come down like extinguished sticks. Meanwhile the progress of that incomparable tonic has been swift and steady—always upward and onward like the eagle's flight Its introduction ... revolution ... therapeutics and ... to be one of those salutary revolutions that cannot go backwards To day Hostetter's Bitters ... the most popular remedies in ... has a larger sale than any other ... on this side of the Atlantic ... dyspepsia bilious disorders ... general debility and as a preventive of epidemic fevers it takes precedence of every other remedy This fact should teach the ambitious country dealers who endeavor to foist their local abortions on the public ... instead how futile their small attempts ... must necessarily be Where the ... have failed there is no chance for the ...

THE GREAT FALLS OF THE YELLOWSTONE

[illegible]

Everything along the Yellowstone intimates [illegible] in Western America. As we advance by ledge or [illegible] all our senses are surprised and bewildered by huge masses of grey limestone, sandstone and [illegible] quartz promiscuously intermingled. Awful openings exhibit singularly arranged strata of the lower, upper and intermediate sections of geologic creation. We pass many burnt districts whose still active internal fires send forth sulphurous fumes and steam. The shrill sound of escaping steam, through tube-like openings in the level plain, is often heard at a distance of eight miles—the most remarkable being that above the Falls, called "The Saw Mill." In the vicinity of Hell Run, before mentioned, and on both sides of the main fork of the Yellowstone, these blowing pipes [illegible] appropriate name [illegible] white fountains or geysers of boiling water, clear and limpid, or black and thick as tar, are in plentiful supply. Geysers of yellow clay mortar raise themselves from the ground by a process of welling over, and harden and taper as they rise, but with walls so thin and fragile that one stroke of a moccasined foot would demolish them. All around large springs of boiling water flow away densely enveloped in steam. One remarkable geyser southeast of the Fork, by overflowings and drippings, has built for itself a small hill of grey stone with knobby sides. It possesses on the top a bowl or crater, into which by climbing, we can enter. This inside is beautifully white and porous, and, being easily broken, exhibits the most delicate tracery of fret-work produced by the action of the water. A circular passage in the center, one foot in diameter, gives periodic vent to its internal troubles. These vents occur at regular intervals of about five minutes each, with loud reports always preceded by low mutterings, which increase in violence until the rim wells over, when a jet of several heights of water is projected to an immense height and falls around in warm drops. A bank of pale rose alum is near, whose astringent spring, flowing out twenty feet beneath, still slowly adds to the hardened rock-like delta it has been forming since the world became inhabitable. The water of this spring is warm and it is the origin of a creek which empties into the Yellowstone from the east beyond the Falls. Heaps of sulphur, half petrified trees and pillars of purple rock frequently meet the gaze through deep openings or within dripping caverns. On this, the northwest side of the Falls, an immense butte towers up from the billowy mass of the forest like a castle in the sea. It is situated between the Falls, and to obtain a commanding view from its top will occupy a full half day of violent exercise. But once reached, what a view it is! No better spot could be selected for the survey of that imposing and opposing exhibition of plain, mountain and forest, which lends such fascination to the outlying ranges of the Rocky Mountains. And here, within sight and sound of these stupendous Falls we govern the rarest sight to be found throughout the whole extent of American landscape scenery. In wealth of light and shadow, suggestion, sublimity, picturesqueness and extent of view, its superiority can never be successfully denied.

Descending from our eyrie, we advance upon the roar of the Upper Falls, where tower upon tower has drawn itself up on either side, colored by pyrites into shining orange, sea-green or pale red, until the last rock dies into the water beneath, and we come at last upon the vast promontory, or bench which, thrown across the flood, forms the porch of the Falls. The burst of life and light and noise caused by the waters rushing to the abyss below with a sudden descent of three hundred feet of visible depth forms a supreme moment. As it can be approached beneath, by a hazardous descent, we will make the effort along the sullen rocks, which reflect the colors of flour spar, and behind the mist of raging waters we shall find meet hermitage for severest anchorite.

Half way between the Upper and Lower Falls there is a practicable crossing, at this season, while the river above is impassable anywhere without swimming your horse. The Yellowstone is full as wide here as at Emigrant gulch, possessing as great width, and, I believe, as large a volume of water, notwithstanding its lower tributaries. The burnt and burning districts through which it flows undoubtedly absorb vast quantities of its element, only preventing it becoming as large a river as the Missouri at St. Joseph.

Arrived at the Lower Falls, Bald Peak stands upon the right hand side, and we find the river again suddenly stopped by a platform or shelf of rock, which stretches with straight edge directly across, from land to land, for a distance of three-eighths of a mile. The trail and worn tracks, made by countless generations of moose, elk, deer, etc., coming down the mountains in the fall and returning in the spring, are imprinted into the solid porch, where, having left their routes, they came to gaze over at the stupendous waterfall. Clinging to a solitary pine which springs through a niche at a distance of several yards from the sharp brink of the precipice, I shrank awhile, from some appalling instinct, ere, prone upon the swimming shelf, I could venture a frightened look into the terrible abyss, and it was not until my poor head was able to make all firm again and I was capable of bearing this suspension in mid-heaven, that I could look straight down from my mountain buttress and drink in the wonders of the spot which God has made so grand, so fair and fearfully sublime. What wildering admiration filled my soul as I gazed down on the ravishing sight. Here the entire Yellowstone, with a breadth of from four to six hundred yards, falls through the wings of the wind in a clear perpendicular pitch of at least one thousand feet! But the depth appears immeasurable. A thousand shapes of dissipated spray and mist arise and glitter in the sun light, giving birth to rainbow hues which in their tremulous changes, and aided but slightly by fancy, disclose arches of triumph, butterflies, birds, flowers, fairy figures, fire-works—in fact, every form and figure of beauty is embraced in this sublime natural panorama, which through all the days and all the nights of by gone centuries, has lavished its dazzling maze of beauty unseen and undreampt of by civilized man.

Recovering from its fall the river rushes furiously and foamingly along, in an almost direct line of inclination for at least four miles. It then turns to the left and pursues its way to latitude 48 deg and longitude 104 deg, where it empties into the Missouri near Forts Union and Berthold. The Lower Falls may be approached from about five miles below along either of the rocky sides. I lingered by the hour above them, until the haze of twilight warned me to depart, but returned, once and again, to the captivating scene. At last night descended upon forests and Falls, the mountains wrapped themselves to sleep and the show was over.

There are two distinct Falls, about three-fourths of a mile apart, and at certain seasons of the year the river is fordable between. They are situated about eighty miles from Bozeman in a direction three-fourths of a degree east of south. The Lake begins some twenty miles beyond, and with an average expanse of thirty miles, stretches its white sheet away to the south for another space of full eighty miles.

Prussia's Contribution to America in 1777

[From the Philadelphia Press.]

While the name of Lafayette, the gallant Frenchman whose services in our war for independence will ever be remembered by the American people, is upon a thousand tongues since the opening of the present war in Europe, that of Steuben, Prussia's contribution to America in 1777, has almost faded from recollection. Baron Frederick William Augustus Steuben, to whose skill in the [illegible] tion of troops and the organization of armies much of the success of our struggle with the mother country is owing, deserves an equal place in the affections of the American people with Lafayette.

A native of Magdeburg, Prussia, he served in 1747 as a volunteer under his father in the army of Frederick the Great, at the early age of fourteen. He participated in many of the battles of the Seven Years War, distinguishing himself by his admirable conduct in action and great bravery. Gradually rising from the ranks, he was in 1761 made a Grand Marshal.

In 1777, while on a visit to France, he was solicited by a number of our friends there, with whom he held intimate relations, to come to America. After numerous interviews with our commissioners at the Court of France, he finally decided to come, and on Dec 1, 1777, landed at Portsmouth, N. H. He immediately tendered his services to Congress and General Washington in a letter which breathed the strongest sympathy with and devotion to our cause. He shortly after entered the army, then encamped in its miserable quarters at Valley Forge, near Philadelphia.

The spring of 1778 found the people discouraged, the public finances in a deplorable state, the soldiers half fed and clothed, and without organization or discipline. The news of the treaty concluded with France inspired the people with confidence, but could not reorganize our army. It was at this time, May 5, 1778, that Baron Steuben was appointed Inspector General with the rank of Major General. Through his great efforts the Continental army, which had been somewhat unforced, was trained and disciplined and its condition greatly improved. He participated in the battle of Monmouth on June 28, 1778, adding new laurels to his already brilliant reputation.

The greatest of his labors, and the one which was of most service to the struggling patriots was the preparation of a manual for the army. In this work, which was approved by Congress in 1779, he gave evidence of great military ability and fitness for command. It made out of the Continentals an army, and by its sagacious and rigid rules prepared them for victory. In 1780 Baron Steuben commanded the Colonial troops in Virginia, where he was very active in harassing the British under Benedict Arnold. He was afterwards attached to Lafayette's division, and played an important part in the siege of Yorktown.

Baron Steuben was distinguished for his generosity and kindness of heart. He clothed his soldiers at his own expense, and labored incessantly to relieve their privations and to promote their comfort and welfare. The close of the war found the country suffering from the long stagnation of trade and agriculture, and the treasury exhausted. He consequently experienced much annoyance and vexatious delay in securing an appropriation for his pay and to reimburse him for his expenditures for clothing and arms for his soldiers. Congress finally, in 1790, conferred upon him a life annuity of $2,500. The State of New York presented him with 16,000 acres of land near Utica, where he settled and passed the remainder of his days. Other States followed with resolutions acknowledging his eminent services and donating him tracts of land. The brave old campaigner who had fought on two continents with equal renown, died at his settlement near Utica on the 28th of November 1794, aged 64 years, leaving behind him naught but a name which belongs to history.

IS NOW PREPARED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS to its stock.

Application for ONE HUNDRED SHARES was made before it [illegible] and a good number of shares have been taken.

The following extracts from the Oregonian and Bulletin will convey a good idea of the plan and workings of the Association, the location of the land, etc.

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

This association, of whose organization we gave an account a few days since, is now ready to dispose of shares. As it is, with no exception, the first Portland Homestead Association (the pioneer organization of that kind in this city), it may be well enough to state what are its purposes and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations. The purposes of these Homestead Associations are not at all speculative in the ordinary sense of the word. They are dependent for the profits of their investment upon the natural advance in the value of their lands, consequent upon the co-operation of many individual shareholders, and the advance in values of all surrounding lands by reason of the expansion of population and demand for room outside of but still near the city. The Riverside Homestead Association has a fraction over one hundred and twenty acres of land situated just south of Brooklyn on the east side of the river, the nearest boundary line being about one mile from the ferry landing at East Portland. The tract lies in one strip along the Wallamet river, half a mile in length, and another strip along the Oregon and California railroad half a mile in length, the two strips being connected near the middle by two rows of blocks (with a street between them), the whole forming a figure not unlike the letter H. It is divided into 74 blocks 200 feet square (with streets running at right angles) and 80 fractional lots along the river front. The shares number 600, worth $60 per share. It will be seen that a share thus represents nearly a lot with an undivided interest in the 80 fractional lots. The 80 fractional shares are to be sold off at the proper time for the benefit of the Association, shareholders coming in for the proceeds in proportion to the number of shares held. When all shares are taken and the Association shall determine to do it, the choice of lots and blocks will be put up at auction to the highest bidder, the proceeds of such sales, after deducting the original price of shares or lots, to be divided equally among the whole number of shares. Thus if a person wants a particular lot or block and is willing to pay $100 or $500 premium (more or less as the case may be) he pays it and takes the lot or block as his individual property, the premium being divided among the whole number of shareholders. It will be seen therefore that everything is co-operative and all interests mutual. No man can make a dollar out of it without also making a dollar for every other equal shareholder. There is no chance for loss, unless the property by some chance, should depreciate far below the first actual cost. Whether this is liable to happen in the case of this particular tract of land must be judged by each for himself, but considering the steady and unprecedented advance on real estate in this city and neighborhood, and at East Portland and vicinity, for the last year or two, it seems hardly possible for values to go back.

In the Riverside Association all proper precautions seem to have been taken to guard against monopolies of shares. No person is allowed to buy more than the number of shares representing three blocks, or twenty four lots, and votes determining the operations of the Association are restricted in the same manner. The buyers of shares may pay down $60 per share which will exempt them from all assessments, or they may pay $15 quarterly with an assessment of $5 per share payable with the first installment, being liable in this latter case to another (and only one other) assessment of $3 per share. Upon the payment of the shares in full with the assessments as above, the holder is entitled to his certificate and his proportion of all the profits accrued from all sources. No officer of the Association receives any pay for services except the Secretary, who gets $25 per month, so it will be seen that the expenses must be light.

That part of the tract lying along the river is a high plateau, nearly level, about 60 to 90 feet above the water. There is no part of the front row of blocks but commands a splendid view of Portland and the river for miles up and down stream. That part of the tract lying along the railroad is every foot of it of the richest loam soil and adapted to gardening purposes. A beautiful little stream of pure water runs through almost the entire length of this wing of the tract, affording the means of irrigation and power sufficient to supply pure water to every part of the whole tract. There is not a waste lot or fractional lot in the entire tract. Under all these advantages it would seem impossible that there should be any chance of loss to shareholders. Within a year each shareholder, if he choose, may get a perfect title to as many lots as his shares may represent, or he may continue his interest undivided with the Association while the organization may exist.—Oregonian.

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

We have been led to make these remarks from the fact that the subject of making homesteads on the outskirts of this city and East Portland is being thoroughly discussed here among all classes, and one homestead, the Riverside, just south of East Portland, has already been established. The site selected is a tract of land lying a little over a [illegible] south of the ferry landing. It is shaped like the letter H, [illegible] each half mile in length. [illegible] on the river.

From this portion of the homestead, which is elevated but a trifle above the other prong of the H, but is at [illegible] forty or fifty feet above the river, one has an extensive view of Portland, East Portland, [illegible] and the Willamette river for several miles. The land is very fertile and [illegible] covered with [illegible]. A tract of land just [illegible] of two rows of blocks with an avenue between them [illegible] of the H, which has already been cleared [illegible] the last tract of [illegible] valley [illegible] state of [illegible] Through [illegible] the west [illegible] what is clear [illegible] Association [illegible] good every title of the homestead.—Daily Bulletin.
